Last Call for -B Model Communicating Controls

We have made a last time purchase on components to build -B model communicating controls. After depletion of these components, the -B models will no longer be produced. Once factory stock of these models is exhausted, the -C communicating control will be the replacement for future orders. (See chart below for compatibility.)

*Note: The French SKU is no longer needed because the -C SKUs include French packaging, in-box literature and language on the screens.

White -C model will be available late in the summer.

Over the last few months, there have been many improvements made to the -C model that makes it a great replacement for the -B.
